COMMUNITY UPDATE

YES! The Yass Hospital is open

Important reminder to community members.

The Yass Hospital emergency department remains open and it is business as usual for community members needing to access medical care.

New Emergency Department to commence operations

Marking a major milestone in the redevelopment of Yass Hospital, construction of the new Emergency Department (ED) has been completed and will commence operations from June 2020.

The new ED delivers a dedicated ambulance entry point and an additional emergency department treatment bay.

Redevelopment work resumes on-site

Following a short pause to assess and prepare for the operational impacts of COVID-19, Southern NSW Local Health District and Health Infrastructure (HI) have resumed redevelopment works on the hospital site.

The works will progress in a staged manner, focused on minimising impact to the delivery of health services and in line with NSW Government COVID-19 advice.

It is anticipated these final portions of work will be completed by October 2020.
