

The doors are open!

The builders have packed up, the site fencing has come down, the community has walked-through the new hospital, and now the doors have officially opened on Cobar's beautiful new hospital.

A big thank you to the staff who have worked hard to relocate equipment, stock the new hospital, clean and prepare it for operation.

Thank you also to the local artists involved in creating a healing and vibrant atmosphere within the hospital through the paintings, art and photographs.

The project team would like to thank our builders "Hutchies" for not only delivering a fantastic new hospital, but for their commitment to delivering projects within the Cobar community.

And finally thank you to the community for your patience and support during the redevelopment, and particularly those who have assisted on working groups.

We hope your new hospital brings health and comfort to many.

The new Cobar Health Service

Above: Smoking ceremony (left) and (right) Alan also known as 'Buck' was the first patient to Community Health who said the new hospital "looks alright". We think so too Buck!

Below: One of the Inpatient Rooms and the Emergency Department.

